

A MANUFACTURER'S STOCK 416 EMBROIDERED WAIST PATTERNS

On Sale Today and For a Few Days More at Only $1.39 Each.

These are the most beautiful designs imaginable. Beautifully embroidered in silk on Mercerized Batiste, Pongees and Poplins in White and Cream, with a limited number of Browns, Greens, Blues and Blacks among them. These sold and are selling today in New York for $3.00 to $3.50 a pattern. That these are a manufacturer's stock and that there is no more obtainable is the reason for this unreasonably low price.

The street railway had a "newfangled" sweeper out this morning. A man ran ahead of the car with a broom, sweeping the snow from a space about three inches wide. Under this plan the car had to stop about once a minute to go back and gain headway.

The London Dramatic News has the following regarding Mrs. Bixby: Marie Parcella Bixby has a pure contralto voice of three octaves of very rich Alton-like quality. Signor Pizzi, who wrote the opera Gabriella for Madame Patti, has written several songs for Mrs. Bixby's voice to display its unusual compass.

Jack Fraser of Graniteville, Goddard's mainstay in the box for the last two seasons, is numbered now among the candidates for the Holy Cross college base ball team at Worcester, Mass., and according to the newspaper reports is looked upon favorably. One report says that "much is expected of him this season." Jack is in the preparatory department of the Worcester institution.

We must not leave out Asia Wiggs for she was an artist. The material to work with seems such an expense to Mrs. Wiggs, but if painting was her forte she must have a chance. So she went to a store and they charged her 75 cents for a little boxful. She thought that a mighty heap. Then she went to a paint shop and Mr. Becker found a lot of "red" and "blue" and only charged her a nickel and "threw in" a paint brush. "I'll tell you," says Mrs. Wiggs, "she painted a heap with it. She even painted the window glass to cover up a crack, that ran the whole length of the window." Don't fail to see this noted artist at the Universalist vestry, Feb. 13-16.

The time of Supreme court was largely occupied yesterday with the petition for a new trial by David C. Collis of Northfield, who was sentenced to the house of correction for four years for shooting at Mary Broggi. The petition was brought on the ground of new evidence, Lena Whitney, who was employed at the Broggi house at the time of the rumpruss and who could not be found at the time of the trial, deposing that Mrs. Broggi's dress which figured so largely in the conviction of Connolly, was not worn by the complainant at that time. The dress with holes, purporting to be bullet holes, was exhibited at the trial. She also deposed that the Broggi had made threats against Connolly. J. N. Harvey argued for the petitioner and State's Attorney Jackson for the state.
